Relationship between the Mass Media & the Stars

Today, we can easily know many things about the stars, such as their personality and private life. Why can we get their news that easily?

Because of the mass media! They follow the stars closely and take their photos to write an article. As a result, we can read it in the newspaper. Very often, the news is not true as it is intentionally distorted by journalists. A false report can seriously spoil their images and affect their private life. I believe no one wants to disclose their secrets. We all have the right to enjoy our private life. Therefore, the mass media should stick to this point before reporting about the stars.

One the other hand, stars will do some silly things to make news in the mass media. They work hard for money or fame at the cost of losing happiness. They should not do silly things deliberately for their fame. They should spend more time at work. Neither stars nor the mass media are right. What should they do to keep their relationship well? The mass media always show the star’s private life. The stars are influenced by them. If they do not do it, they can have better relationship. To stars, if they mind their own things and do their jobs well, they can also be seen in the mass media. It is a better way if they want to be seen in the mass media.

To sum up, stars and the mass media can have good relationship if they can solve those problems. They should realize that to keep a distance is really important and good for each other. Arguments and complaints can be avoided. At last, stars are able to have their private life by this way, and their relationship will become better and better.
